

GUARDIANS.

Being Rejected By Many Who Were Present At A. P. A. Meeting.

Col. Cowan Absolves Miles, But Neglects to Mention Haines and Barnett.

Louisville Herald's Manly Editorial Throws Contention Into Alleged Patriots.

POST'S HYPOCRITICAL ASSERTION

Following the expose in the Kentucky Irish American of the alleged Guardians of Liberty and the indignation expressed on all sides at the attempt of a few to arouse prejudice against Catholics because of their religion, many who attended the Gen. Miles' meeting in Scottish Rite Cathedral are now stating that they were there under the impression that it was to be a patriotic meeting held under G. A. R. auspices, and are bitter at the promoters, who they say secured the presence of many by false pretenses. As was predicted in these columns last week, Col. Andrew Cowan, who presided at the meeting, denies any intention of fostering the A. P. A. movement, and in a card to one of the daily papers this week states that he was there on the personal invitation of his old friend, Gen. Miles, who assured him in advance that although the preamble of the Guardians of Liberty sounded very much anti-Catholic, there would simply be talk of patriotism, which Col. Cowan neglected to state in his card was not borne out, as the foul and bitter attacks of Preacher Barnett, of Philadelphia, and ex-Congressman Haines, of New York, refute this assertion, and if Miles is not attacking Catholics he is in no way helping them, as this trio have been traveling together delivering these lectures and have been severely criticized by all of the liberal daily press in different parts of the country. Ex-Mayor Charles P.

and that he was highly astounded to hear the bitter tirades against Catholics by Barnett and Haines, and how they were heartily applauded by the promoters, and their dupes in the audience. To settle any doubt in the minds of any fair minded person as to the proper status of the Guardians of Liberty in the eyes of the public the following extracts are taken from the Louisville Herald:

"The Guardians of Liberty is a striking and effective name for a patriotic organization. No one can question that liberty needs guarding. Even in a free country where democratic institutions obtain vigilance is its price. But the Herald deprecates the launching of a movement of this character at a meeting marked by assault upon a religious denomination. Reports of the gathering at the Scottish Rite Cathedral represent two speakers, one a former Congressman, the other a preacher, attacking the Catholic church in undisciplined and unbecoming manner. We are told their speeches were greeted with applause, and an amazing feature of the affair is the fact that, among other prominent citizens, two Federal officeholders occupied seats on the platform while these speeches were being made.

"The true patriot will not endeavor to foment religious strife. No more terrible crime can come upon a country than a struggle of people over questions of creed. With the declaration of the new league that no citizen should owe allegiance to any temporal power that he considers superior to the Constitution of the United States, and that no political or ecclesiastical organization should be allowed to manipulate or control the sovereign citizenship of the people we are in hearty accord; but holding these sound and genuinely patriotic convictions does not justify an attack upon the faith of our fellow citizens, such as seems to have been made by at least one of the speakers with the approval of the audience.

"No religious denomination in this country has larger opportunity to control political power than any other, except such as is incidental to its numerical strength. The constitutional safeguards against the peril of such control, should effort be made at any time to gain it, are surely sufficient. The real menace in such an attempt is not to the people, but to the ecclesiastical organization that is made enough to engage in it. Liberty has less to fear than a plot of this kind and peace and concord from the pernicious policy of provoking religious ill feeling and making the faith of thousands the object of ridicule and denunciation.

"With all that the Guardians of Liberty can do to promote intelligent, patriotic citizenship we are in full sympathy. In the fostering of education and the appeal to the spirit of enlightened democracy will be found the strongest bulwark of liberty. This can be done with the broadest toleration for the creeds of others, and without the speaking of a single syllable of bitterness. Declaring themselves to be 'nonsectarian,' the Guardians of Liberty seem to have made the serious error of striking the note of sectarian warfare at their first meeting."

The two Federal officers referred to in the above are Postmaster Robert E. Woods and Assistant Postmaster John G. Morey, who thus far have given no explanation of their conduct, which is a direct violation of Government ethics, if nothing else, in aiding and abetting attacks on Catholic citizens and supporters of the Government which pays their salaries. The Evening Post's part in the affair being exposed, comes to the front with a lame editorial on "how much good these patriotic meetings can accomplish by having open and free discussion of patriotic affairs," while at the same time knowing that the meeting was not intended to be open and free and that invitation was by card only furnished by the A. P. A. promoters, which fact was published in their paid official notice.

JOHN FACKLER.

Grand Old Man Whose Life Was a Model For All.

With deep regret this paper announces the death of that fine old Catholic citizen, John Fackler, which took place Friday evening at his residence on Tyler Park drive. He was born in Bavaria, but had been long identified with the religious, industrial and social life of Louisville that his removal takes away a splendid example to young men with nothing in their pockets, but whose penury is offset by brain, ambition and energy. John Fackler was a successful wagon builder and blacksmith, but retired six years ago. For many years he was a member of St. Patrick's congregation and always active in the work of the St. Vincent de Paul Society and the Catholic Knights of America. For a long time he had been a sufferer from heart disease, and during his illness his wife passed away. Mr. Fackler is survived by five children, Misses Lillie and Lula Fackler, Mrs. Edward J. Bosler, Mrs. A. M. Gregg, of Jefferson, and Charles J. Fackler, two brothers, Paris and Joseph Fackler, of Irvington, and three sisters, Mrs. Julius Deuschke, of Cloverport; Mrs. Ernest Mitchell, of this city, and Mrs. James Hardesty, of Irvington. The funeral took place Monday morning with solemn requiem mass at St. James' church, and when the last mournful duty was performed at St. Louis cemetery there was laid to rest a man who was loved by his intimates, esteemed by his associates and respected by his fellow citizens.

FAREWELL SERMON.

Tomorrow afternoon at St. Vincent de Paul's church the Rev. Father Rudolph C. Ruff, for several years the energetic and popular assistant to Father Thome, will preach his farewell sermon there. Monday Father Ruff will leave for St. Louis to assume the pastorate of St. Patrick's church, to which he has been appointed by Bishop O'Donoghue. During his service at St. Vincent de Paul's church Father Ruff won the love and esteem of everybody living in Germantown. While the congregation regrets to lose him there is rejoicing over his promotion and the fact that he has been made head of the church at St. Louis.

MEMORIAL UNVEILED.

Priests and people of Evansville on Sunday of last week paid fitting and lasting tribute to the character and qualities of the late Rev. Father Eugene F. McBaron, for thirty-one years pastor of the Church of the Assumption in that city. The clergy in numbers and a great throng assembled to witness the unveiling of the memorial tablet to Father McBaron, and the scene in the church where he served so long was most impressive. Immediately preceding the unveiling Rev. Michael Gorman, of Rockville, delivered a touching eulogy, in which he dwelt earnestly upon the virtues which marked the life of Father McBaron.

There will be no admission charged to the afternoon sessions, only the regulation charge for the euchre or lotto being made. A number of handsome prizes have been secured, and in order to show absolute fairness to all concerned these will be so divided that a certain number of prizes will be assigned to the euchre players, and in like manner a certain number for those participating in the lotto games. It has been decided to operate one wheel of fortune at night, crediting to each of the stands the value of the articles from that stand disposed of on the wheel. In the afternoon, however, a number of wheels will turn, though the articles will be of less value than those disposed of at night.

Another meeting was held last night with a full representation of the various committees, and detailed reports of the work accomplished were made.

MACHINE

Backed by Administration Ple and Threats Carries State Convention.

Much Touted Percy Haly Receiving Credit for Performing Boy's Work.

Senator James Wins a Victory by Securing Instructions for Clark.

JAMES' OPINION OF THE POST

The Haly-Beckham machine, backed up by Gov. McCreary and all the weight of his administration, captured control of the Democratic State convention held here Wednesday at Phoenix Hill Park, but not until after a hard fight from Senator Ollie James, Congressman Owsley Stanley, Mayor Head and Frank McGrath, who did not have an unlimited slush fund to carry on their campaign or the backing of the State's Chief Executive to hold up appointments for the whipping into line of unwilling delegates. Credit is being given Percy Haly for his political shrewdness in manipulating the wires at the convention, which work could have been done just as easily by a twelve-year-old school boy if he was given a lot of State positions, penitentiary guards, etc., to peddle around for votes. In politics Percy is about the most overrated man in Kentucky and has only been successful with Beckham and himself as Governor or now with the support of McCreary. On an even footing for the Railroad Commission two years ago, Billy Klair, of Lexington, made Haly, Beckham and all their following look like the veriest novices at the game.

The following will go as delegates at large from the State to the national convention at Baltimore: John C. Mayo, Gov. James B. McCreary, Ollie M. James, Ailie W. Young, Justus Goebel, Ben Johnson and Owsley Stanley. John C. Mayo was elected National Committeeman, succeeding Urey Woodson, while Percy Vansant was chosen State Chairman to succeed R. H. Previtt. Although defeated for Chairman of the convention, Ollie James achieved a big victory by securing iron-bound instructions for Champ Clark, the Haly-Beckham crew finding this a bitter pill to swallow. One noticeable feature of the convention was that the followers of Beckham and Haly, who were always cheering and shouting "down with the liquor trust," were making frequent visits to the bar outside the hall, putting down liquor at every opportunity. C. Mayo, Gov. James B. McCreary, by Senator James at a lying sheet, and its editor a political harlot, lived up to its lying reputation in publishing that the Louisville following was recruited from bar-rooms and chile parlors and were attempting to howl down the McCreary speakers. The leaders of the local delegation cautioned them not to resort to it even after being grossly insulted by the Haly-Beckham tool, H. V. McCreary, and the Post fakir present on stage knew perfectly well that there was no disorder from the Louisville delegation. This can be proven by reliable witnesses who were present.

ANSWERS LAST SUMMERS.

Mrs. Ellen McDonough, aged sixty-six years, died suddenly Saturday morning at the residence of her son-in-law, Wharfmaster Frank J. Dugan, 956 South Sixth street, due to the bursting of a blood vessel of the brain. Mrs. McDonough was a most exemplary Catholic lady, whose daily life was a shining example of daily living. Her kindly, gentle manner won her a host of friends who deeply mourn her death. Besides her daughter, Mrs. Frank Dugan, she leaves two sons, Thomas J. McDonough, Clerk of the Quarterly Court, and Sylvester McDonough, an engineer on the L. and N. railroad. The funeral was held Monday morning, St. Louis Bertrams church being nearly filled by the many friends who came to pray for the repose of her soul.

Father Kalisher, the pastor will officiate, and the closing services will take place Tuesday evening. READY

For Unveiling of Christopher Columbus Memorial Shaft at Washington.

Many Thousands of Knights Will March in Monster Parade.

Ceremony to Take Place on the Afternoon of Saturday July 8.

RESULT OF YEARS OF WORK

The Knights of Columbus throughout the United States, Canada, Mexico and the distant possessions of this country are now practically ready for participation in the Columbus memorial unveiling, to take place in Washington Saturday, June 8. Enthusiasm is everywhere manifest, and there is every assurance that there will be at least 200,000 visitors in the national capital the day of the unveiling. Work on the statue, the site of which is directly in front of the Union Station, has progressed to the point of completion. The heroic figure of Columbus, covered with a mantle of cloth, is in position, and it is a matter of hours when the great capstone or globe will be put in place. The entertainment that has been planned by the Citizens' Committee consists in part of a big reception at the Pan-American Republics building, in which President Taft will probably participate. There will be public concerts, an auto and floral parade, a fireworks display on the monument lot, fetes in the amusement parks, together with many private dinners and entertainments.

The parade that will precede the unveiling on June 8 will be reviewed by President Taft and notable men in official life. There will be a big display by the naval and military forces of the Government. Following the army and navy contingents in the parade will come the Knights of Columbus division, which will be headed by Supreme Knight James A. Maherty, of Philadelphia, as Grand Marshal. It is stated at the office of the Knights of Columbus headquarters that there will be more than 50,000 men in line. Flats depicting various events in the life of Columbus will be in this division. The Knights of Columbus of Washington have contracted for a float showing the landing of Columbus, the cost of which will be $1,000. Other decorations of the Knights of Columbus will have floats in the parade. The fourth degree branch of the Knights will have the right of line in the Knights' division, and they will wear their regulation dress for parade, consisting of the conventional frock coat, dark gray trousers, silk hats, gray gloves and black shoes. Badges will be worn and swords will be carried in the parade. The representation from each State in the Union will carry the American flag and their State flag. Three trainloads of marchers are coming from Chicago alone. From the city of Boston and Massachusetts generally will come at least 15,000 men. Pennsylvania will send a vast concourse of marchers. Maryland will have 3,000 men in line. A special train will come from California with at least 1,000 marchers in the party. From New Jersey, Delaware, the New England States, the Middle West, and even from the Far West will come great numbers of paraders and unveiling reviewers. New York State will contribute a strong, Kentucky and the Southern States will be particularly well represented. Cuba will have a big contingent in the parade. From the Dominion of Canada delegations of large proportions have planned to come to Washington for the unveiling. It is estimated that at least 7,000 persons will journey to Washington from the provinces of the Dominion. The procession will terminate after the paraders have passed the statue, being reviewed by the President and others in the official stand.

The sentiment that the memory of Columbus should be fittingly honored has been growing for a long time. It found its fruition when the National Government, by an act of Congress, passed March 4, 1907, appropriated $100,000 to set up a fitting memorial in the nation's capital to the memory of Columbus, and ever since then much zeal has been shown by the public at large to insure a fitting ceremonial on the occasion of its unveiling. The Knights of Columbus took a leading part in the encouragement of the national legislation, and since its passage have planned and looked forward with great interest to the day when the statue would be unveiled. The site in Washington is regarded as the best possible. It is right at the doorway of the handsome Union Station, one of the largest in the world, and will face the United States Capitol, only three blocks away. The passage of the bill, making the Columbus memorial possible, was especially gratifying to the Knights of Columbus, to whom the memory of the illustrious patron of the order is particularly dear. The Knights have been faithful champions of his cause and labored for years to secure national recognition of his achievements. They have been particularly active in the advocacy of Columbus day as a national holiday, an ambition which it is hoped will be realized soon. The day is already a national holiday in a great many States, and its observance serves to bring out not only a large outpouring of the Knights but of other great organized bodies of men who appreciate to the full the wonderful service rendered the Government.

HOLY CROSS.

Rev. Father Henry Coming to Growing West End Parish.

Members of Holy Cross congregation, Thirty-second and Broadway, are congratulating themselves on the appointment by Bishop O'Donoghue of the Rev. Father J. S. Henry to the pastorate of their church, vacant since the death of the lamented Father John Sheridan. Father Henry will come to Louisville next week, when he will receive a welcome that will at once make him feel at home in his new and enlarged field of labor. For years Father Henry has been the faithful pastor of St. Patrick's church at Stithon and the mission at Vine Grove, where he was held in high esteem by Catholics and Protestants alike. Tuesday he preached his last sermon at Vine Grove, and at the high mass tomorrow at St. Patrick's will bid farewell to the people of Stithon, who have found in him a faithful shepherd and spiritual adviser. The Holy Cross parish has been growing rapidly and will soon rank with the largest in the city, and therefore its members are rejoiced to have in the place of Father Sheridan a priest of the ability and zeal of Father Henry. Father Henry, of the Passionist order, who was temporarily in charge of the parish and made friends with all, will return to the Sacred Heart Retreat.

REERATED.

Knights and Ladies Make Changes in Their Laws.

The biennial convention of the Catholic Knights and Ladies of America, in session at Memphis last week, elected new officers and made important changes in its laws. The report of President Leonard showed a healthy growth and the legislation adopted gives this order an increased degree of stability. The question of raising the dues of the greater part of the time of the convention, and resulted in the adoption of the National Fraternal Congress flat rate assessment at entry age, which means an increase of at least 10 per cent. This rate will go into effect next month, but will not apply to old members until a year later. The following are the new officers elected for the next two years: Spiritual Director—Very Rev. J. Moran, O. P., Minneapolis, Minn. President—Charles H. Marr, Wyandotte, Mich. Vice President—Miss Mary E. Sheridan, Louisville. Secretary—Henry F. Hayes, Chicago, Ill. Treasurer—Mrs. Julia L. O'Keefe, St. Louis. Medical Director—Dr. M. T. Collins, Sedalia, Mo. Trustees—Frank P. Oss, Detroit; John C. Bauer, Detroit; Joseph P. Carey, Memphis.

SPRING BANK BARBECUE.

Final arrangements are being made for the celebration of a monster crowd at the old fashioned barbecue and hurgoo at Spring Bank Park next Tuesday under the auspices of the Spring Bank Club, and the promoters are prepared to feed an army if necessary. Jack Badders, the famous burgoo chef, is preparing the hill of fare and promises to surpass anything in this line ever before attempted. Col. John H. Whalen is general manager and has charge of the disposal of tickets, which are being sold for $1, entitling the holder to all privileges. The park can be reached by taking either the West Walnut or West Broadway cars and transferring at Twenty-eighth and Greenwood avenue.

INJURY PROVES FATAL.

Henry Nitzken, forty-six years of age and a widely known and popular resident of the West End, died Wednesday afternoon at his home, 2511 West Chestnut street, from injuries sustained when a steel car collided with his buggy at Clay and Jefferson streets last fall. A negro who was driving the buggy died of his injuries a few days after the accident. Mr. Nitzken leaves a wife and seven children and a brother and sister. His funeral will take place this morning from St. Mary's church, of which he was a life-long member.

ST. VINCENT DE PAUL'S.

Rev. Francis Keller, a young and energetic priest but recently ordained, has been appointed assistant pastor of St. Vincent de Paul's church, succeeding Rev. Father Ruff, who goes to Stithon. Tomorrow morning at St. Vincent's twenty-nine boys and girls de Paul's received their first holy communion at a high mass, at which the Rev. Father Thome, the pastor, will officiate. At 2 o'clock in the afternoon there will be vespers and benediction, when the first communists will renew their baptismal vows and be enrolled in the League of the Sacred Heart.

FEDERATION.

Interest in the Coming National Convention is Growing Rapidly.

Certain That Every City Parish Will Be Represented in the Parade.

Bishop O'Donoghue Inviting High Dignitaries of Church to Come.

CATHOLIC EDITORS ARE COMING

Interest in the coming convention of the American Federation of Catholic Societies to convene in Louisville August 18-21 is growing apace. This was the information disclosed at the meeting of the Advisory Committee held on Tuesday evening at the Catholic Woman's Club, presided over by the Very Rev. James P. Cronin, V. G., and for which John P. Cassilly acted as Secretary. Fathers Schumann and Hill were the two other clergymen present. General Convention Chairman E. J. Conney and Secretary James B. Kelly are highly pleased with the reports they are receiving from all of the Chairmen of Committees as to the progress of the work in hand—that is to prepare for the proper reception of the delegates and the great throng which promises to be present. This work involves an immense amount of labor, but every committeeman is willingly doing his share, Chairman Conney said.

Col. John H. Whalen, always enthusiastic in everything he undertakes, feels "brilliant" over the prospects for the parade, which he believes will be the highest demonstration ever given in Louisville. The present estimate of Col. Whalen is that it will be four miles long at least. Since the Advisory Committee sent out letters to the clergy asking their co-operation greater interest has been shown in every parish in the city, and it is now certain that each parish will be represented either with a float or otherwise. The parish of St. Helen, in the country, just outside the city limits, will come in on horseback with a float beside. This congregation is made up of farmers and gardeners, and Father Peifer proposes that they make a showing that will make the others sit up and take notice when his "boys" ride down the pike. The colored people are enthusiastic. St. Augustine's and St. Patrick's parishes will be in the parade with floats. If the colored people can afford floats certainly the whites can. There is a mistaken idea about the cost of a float. It need not cost more than $50 or $75 if the members of the congregation, the ladies especially, assist in decorating the vehicle. Of course several hundred dollars might be expended with propriety, but all the congregations can not afford this. There will be a meeting of St. Patrick's congregation held in the school hall at Thirteenth and Market streets Monday night next to take action about the parade. As Father Cronin, the rector of St. Patrick's, is very enthusiastic himself it is expected that his parishioners will be equally so, and something like is expected from St. Patrick's.

Right Rev. Bishop O'Donoghue is sending out letters to the clergy asking their attendance. These invitations include the Papal Delegate, the Cardinals and several Archbishops and Bishops. This whole matter was left to the Bishop, who has kindly consented to urge the attendance of as many as possible of the high dignitaries of the church. Chairman Conney said that some notable addresses would be delivered at the Armory during the public assemblies. The topics to be discussed have not yet been decided upon. Chairman Conney is busy with the work of arranging the programme of exercises, which will be announced in due time.

The Catholic editors of the country will also meet in Louisville during the week of the Federation meeting, and it is important that these be properly entertained. Quite a number of them are clergymen and there will be women writers in the editorial party. The local Federation wants the editors to go away with a good impression of Louisville so that the city, and especially its Catholic people, be placed in the proper light before the country. It is the intention to properly care for the editorial party.

Various minor meetings of the committee will be held during this week, but no formal meeting will be held until June 13, when the General Committee will meet again at the Woman's Club. Mr. John P. Cassilly, who is looking after the souvenir book, says that Edward Fitzpatrick, who is writing the history, has made the work highly interesting, and he feels satisfied the public will appreciate the souvenir when they read it.

SUMMER TRIP ABROAD.

Rev. Father Otto Hafen, pastor of St. Anthony's church at Decoursey and a popular priest of the Covington diocese, will leave tomorrow for an extended trip to Europe, where he will visit his aged parents and officiate at the marriage of his brother at Munich, Bavaria.

WILL THEY TELL?

Will any one tell us where were the "Guardians of Liberty" during the past week? Everywhere Decoration day services were held and everywhere they were missing. They did not honor the country's heroic dead. Really they are not hault that way nor for that purpose. How different with New York's Irish Sixty-ninth Regiment, the fighting Irish Ninth of Boston, the Irish Volunteer First of New York City and Irish companies throughout the United States who won glory in defense of the Stars and Stripes. In the national cemeteries sleep thousands of Catholic heroes who stood side by side with Protestant heroes and sacrificed their lives for their country. And neither questioned the religion of the other. They were the true guardians, true soldiers and true Christians. But with them can not be classed Miles Guardians of Liberty, the Junior Order or the A. P. A., whose bigotry and selfishness would destroy the constitution and end in chaos.

The Kentucky Irish American joins the co-religionists of Rahab II. G. Enlow in bidding him farewell, and expresses the hope that in his larger field in New York City he will receive the same warm-hearted treatment that was bestowed on him here in Louisville.

When the centennial of the War of 1812 is celebrated this month there should be no salutation of the British flag. Let us bestow all our honors on the Stars and Stripes. Those who would do otherwise may go to England.

Col. Roosevelt has now an apparent lead over President Taft for the Republican nomination for the Presidency. With Champ Clark as the Democratic nominee, what the voters will do to the G. O. P. will be plenty.

Many have asked what right has the President of the United States, receiving some $2,500 per month, to spend his time flying about the country canvassing for votes. The people will answer the question next November.

The Republican New York Times declines to throw the charitable mantle of insanity over Col. Roosevelt, and says "he is as sound in mind as any other calculating and unscrupulous demagogue."

At the commemoration at New Orleans of the one hundredth anniversary of the admission of the State of Louisiana to the Union, Archbishop Blenk delivered the opening prayer.

While Roosevelt may wreck and destroy the Republican party, he can not make himself President.

LAWN EUCIRE.

The Ladies' Auxiliary of the Ancient Order of Hibernians is preparing to entertain a large crowd at its lawn eucire next Monday evening on the spacious lawn of Mr. and Mrs. Gus Ansbach, 1621 West Broadway. The ladies have secured many valuable prizes for the occasion and the arrangements of lighting by electric light is sure to prove a splendid attraction.

COMMENCEMENT.

The Kentucky Irish American has received invitations from the President and faculty of St. Mary's College to the ninety-first annual commencement of the famous Kentucky seat of learning, which will be held in the college hall on Thursday, June 19. From all parts of the country will come notable people to witness these exercises.

ST. CHARLES BORROMEO.

Prof. George Ruffner, well known in local musical circles, has accepted the position of organist at St. Charles Borromeo and will handle the grand organ bought for the new church. Miss Maggie Gorman, who has been organist there for years, will continue in charge of the children's choir and the musical services during the week.

MOUNT PLEASANT SOCIALS.

The Mount Pleasant Socials, an organization founded many years ago and carrying on its rolls the names of some of Louisville's oldest and best known citizens, will have a great reunion at Phoenix Hill Park next Monday afternoon and night, to which they invite all their friends. The amusements will be numerous and will include euchre and lotto games both afternoon and evening. A really pleasant time is assured for those who attend.

SOCIETY.

Mrs. T. J. Golden, of Oakdale, had as a recent visitor Miss Ray Costello, of this city.

INDUSTRIES

Mark Rapidly Gaining Prosperity And Self-Reliance In Ireland.

Revival of Activities Which Were Famous in Days Long Gone By.

Linen, Boot Making, Lace and Other Growing Manufactures.

AGAIN WEAVE WOOL GOODS

From Dublin comes intelligence that Ireland's progress in industry in the last ten years has been no less striking than her progress in agriculture, and unlike the agricultural advance, which is due in some degree to State aid, the industrial growth owes its origin entirely to the new spirit of self-reliance among the Irish people. The north of Ireland and notably the cities of Belfast and Derry and their neighborhoods have long been noted for their industrial pre-eminence. Belfast's shipbuilding industry is the greatest in the world. The linen manufacturing trade of Belfast and the northeast Ulster towns supplies the world with its flax products and the Derry shirt factories send their goods to all parts of the earth.

These great industries have shared in the prosperity of Ireland, but are not dependent on it, for the greater part of their product is exported. The true test of the country's increasing industrial prosperity is the enormous growth of small industries, many of which are revivals of activities for which Ireland was famous in days gone by. One of the most notable of these is the woolen industry. Before the union Irish woolen goods were famous on this side of the water at least, but England's competition drove them out of the market, and about all that were produced were home-spuns in small quantities. In the last ten years small mills have been established all over the country and Irish suitings and dress goods are coming into their own again. In all these enterprises success has come from the elimination of management expenses. The managers are their own designers and salesmen and one foreman looks after all the processes.

The subdivision of labor, common in larger enterprises, would be fatal to these infant industries. The wool is obtained from the local farmers, who are encouraged to breed the right kind of sheep, and the labor is all drawn from the surrounding districts. Boot and shoe making is another industry which is reviving in Ireland. Limerick hoots were once sought after by dandies all over Europe. Then English and American competition destroyed the industry, but today there are three large factories in Limerick.

An interesting instance of the effect of the Sinn Fein movement on the revival of industry is found in the Kilkeny woodworkers. This enterprise was started a few years ago by a few young mechanics and artists who wished to revive some of the traditional Irish forms in furniture and decoration. So quickly did it succeed that today Kilkeny furniture is found in all parts of Ireland and a large export trade is growing up.

Another feature of the revival is the growth of what are known as home industries. There has always been a great deal of this in Ireland, notably in the embroidery and sewing trades and to a less extent in lace manufacturing. Nearly all the embroidery of handkerchiefs, for instance, is done by Irish girls in their homes, and much of the shirt making for the Derry factories is also parcelled out in the same way.

In the last nine or ten years there has been a great revival in lace making. Classes have been formed, particularly in the west, where girls are taught to produce, not only the traditional Irish laces, but the best continental patterns as well. Convent schools have been particularly active in this revival.

 The golden jubilee was recently celebrated of St. Brigid's Convent of Mercy, Clara, King's county. It was the wish of the Sisters that the celebration should be of an entirely private nature.  Mrs. Kitty Campbell, of Louth Village, who is 103 years of age, is the oldest Gaelic speaker in that county. She has a distinct recollection of the famous "Wild Goose Lodge" burning, which took place in 1817, within a few miles of her home. Her second eldest daughter, who is still living with her, and is over seventy-two, was a few months old the night of the "big wind."

HOME NEXT TUESDAY.
 After tomorrow's game at Columbus the Colonels will leave for home, resting up Monday, and beginning Tuesday with Minneapolis and playing every team in the association, ending up with Toledo on June 22. This long home series will settle all doubts as to the final outcome of Louisville in the pennant race, as with the addition of Moore and Lenoex, together with the recovery of Madden and Stansbury, the team will be at its best and should make rapid strides in its long stay at home. Stansbury should be placed in left field, which is being guarded very weakly at present, and then the team could stand pat for the rest of the season. Manager Tighe has the utmost confidence of the fans, who are in hearty accord with his system thus far and believe that from now on the Louisville club will bear watching.

BISHOP HOGAN.
 On June 10 Right Rev. John J. Hogan, D. D., Bishop of Kansas City, will celebrate his eighty-third birthday. He recently celebrated the sixtieth anniversary of his ordination to the priesthood. Bishop Hogan was born in Limerick, Ireland, on May 10, 1829. He came to America at the age of eighteen, entered the theological seminary at St. Louis, and on April 10, 1852, he was ordained to the priesthood by the late Archbishop Kenrick. When the diocese of St. Joseph was erected in 1863 he was appointed its first Bishop, and in 1880, when the diocese of Kansas City was formed, he was transferred to that see.
